公司需要从上千个结构新颖的分子骨架出发合成编码化合物库。分子骨架必须结构新颖且具备基本的成药可能性, 并至少具有 2 个或以上可以用于有机化学连接反应的活性位点可以用于库的合成。如何有效的得到这些分子骨架是目前我们需要解决的问题, 可以采取直接购买, 定制合成, 合作开发等方式灵活的利用市场资源进行。

Project Description:

Our company is establishing huge encoded libraries for biological screening starting from hundreds of novel scaffolds. The scaffolds should have structural novelty and drug-likeness. On each scaffold there should be at least two functional groups that are suitable for chemical coupling reactions. And the molecules should be available in gram scale. Our goal at the moment is to enhance the scaffold collection to help construct our encoded libraries. Firstly, we'd like to buy some unique structures from commercial source if they are already on catalogues. Secondly, we have got some ideas on the structure design and we may outsource some of the synthesis work. Thirdly, if there are really interesting scaffolds, we are willing to co-develop some encoded libraries with our building block collection (more than 4,000 reagents) as well.

合作项目三: 基于表型检测的靶标识别

Cooperation project 3: Target identification based on phenotypic detection

项目简介:

我公司的靶标识别技术方法新颖、可靠、快速，能够模拟更为真实的靶标生物环境，为药物研发机构加快药物研发进程提供有力帮助。

Project Description:

Target identification based on phenotypic detection is a powerful and widely used approach for identification of novel drug candidates. However, FDA requires the validated target for the drug and mechanism of action prior to the approval; in addition, it makes it extremely challenging for hit-2-lead optimization without knowing the specific target of the hit. Several research groups reported target fishing strategies in extracellular condition (cell lysis solution), however, these approaches do not represent the real biological environment.

HitGen's target identification technology is a novel technology working with intracellular target, which has been validated using known targets. Its successful application will significantly accelerate drug discovery process with comparably low cost.
